Ordinal21 takes the form of an educational community in which access is achieved through a membership obtained by minting an Ordinal NFT from our

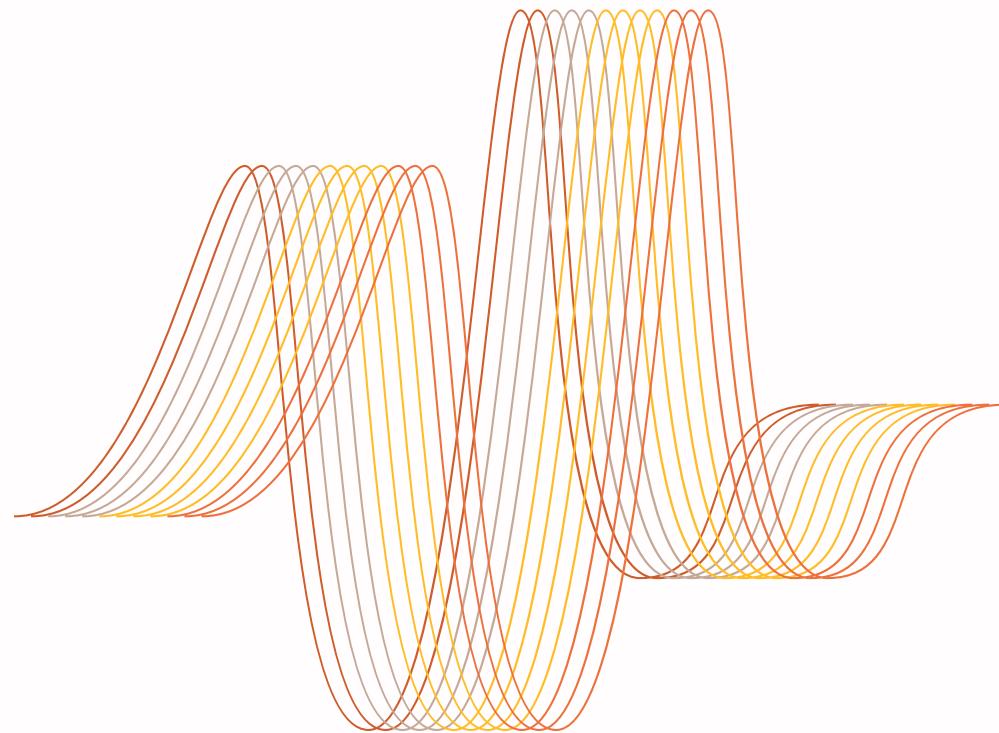

How can I obtain an Ordinal21?

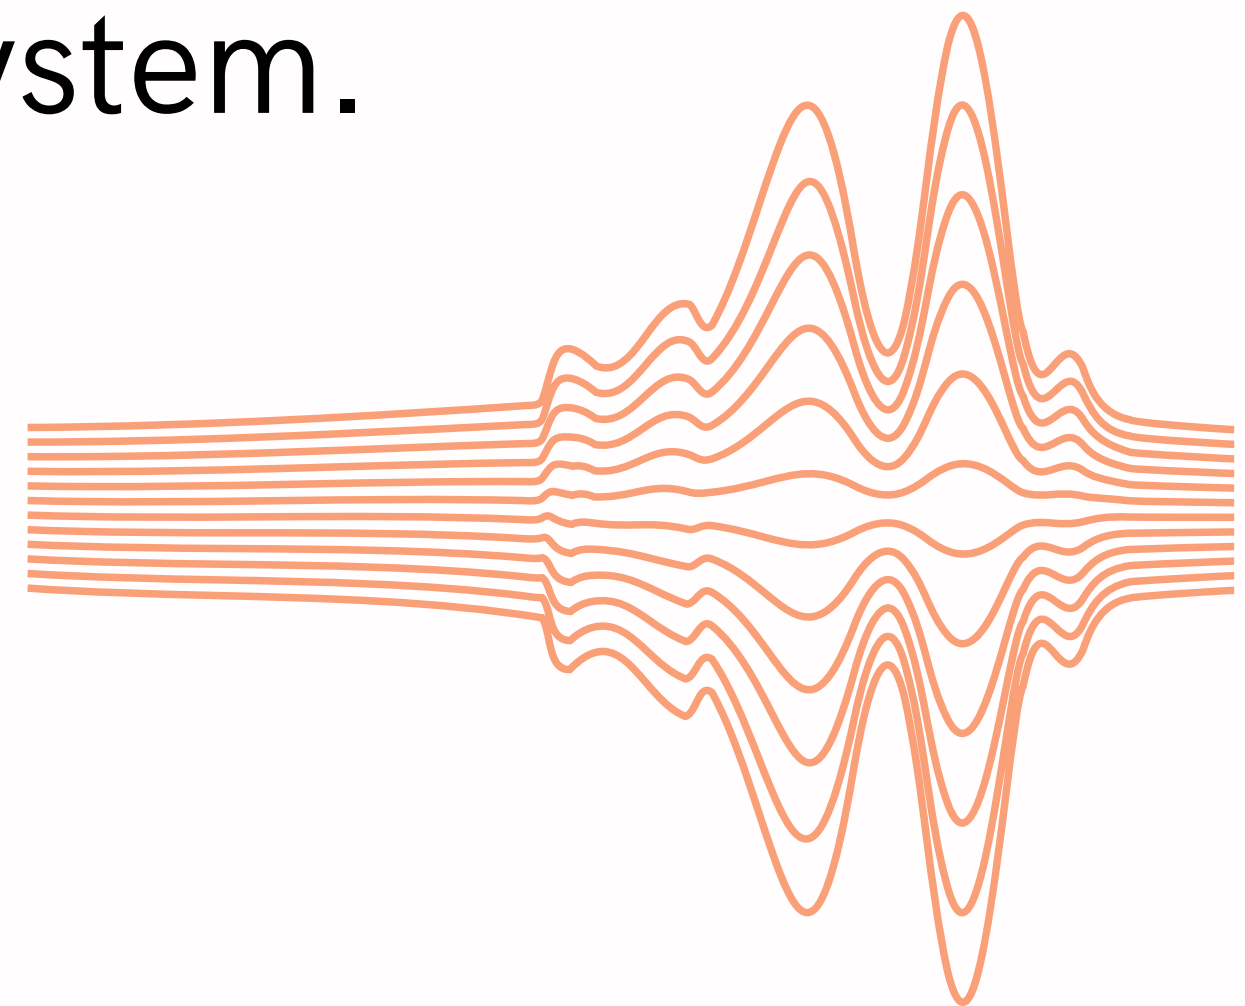

Ordinal21 it's a NFT collection about 2,100

NFTs inscribed in the Bitcoin blockchain

'FREE MINT'

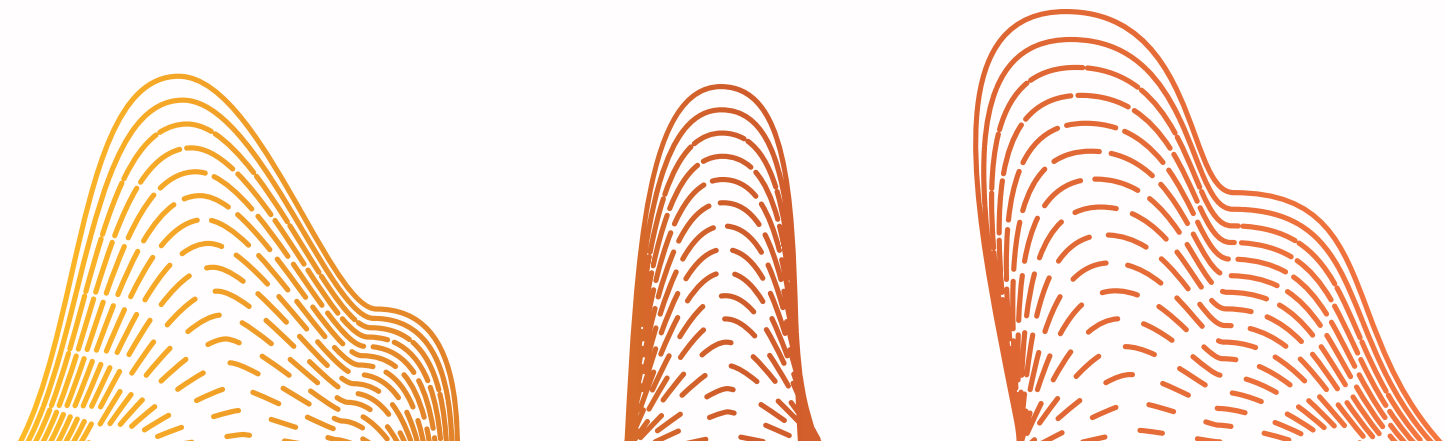

In addition, among the attributes of the Ordinal21 NFTs is access to an exclusive group on a social network. This private group provides a safe educational space for people who want to enter the ecosystem.

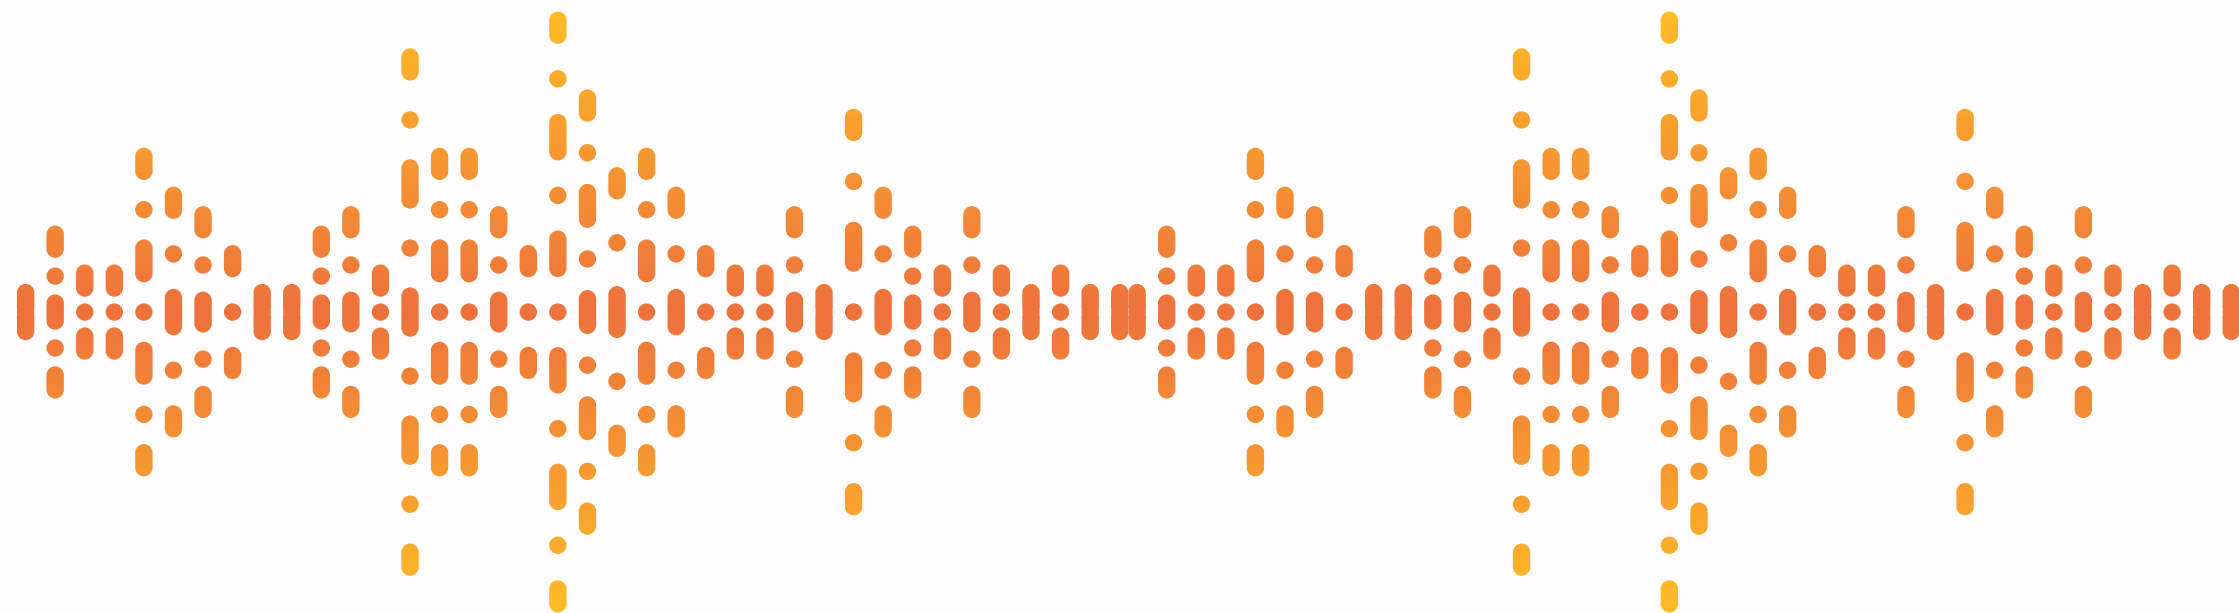

What are we going to do at Ordinal21?

It is important to mention that the content will not be limited to what is shared on socials, but

NFT holders will have access to other educational resources created specifically for the community.

Some of these educational resources are also designed to be taught in the real world, approaching universities or business and innovation centers to introduce them to builders in Bitcoin and Ordinals technology.

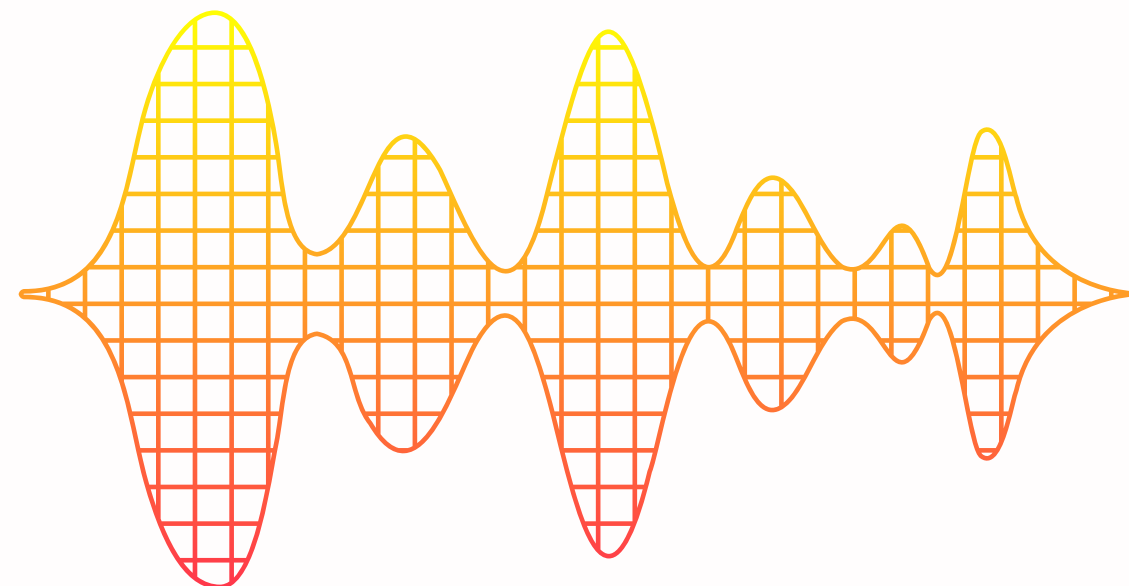

Why do we need a project like Ordinal21?

It is important to highlight that the need for this project lies in the little reliable information and the absence of an educational environment about Bitcoin technology and specifically Ordinals, especially in Latin America, where we think this project is most needed because of the economic situation that a lot of countries are going through.

Focusing on educating the community about one of the most revolutionary inventions of recent years can put within people's reach the necessary knowledge to improve their financial status and also improve their lives.
